Travertine Marble Oyster Tiles

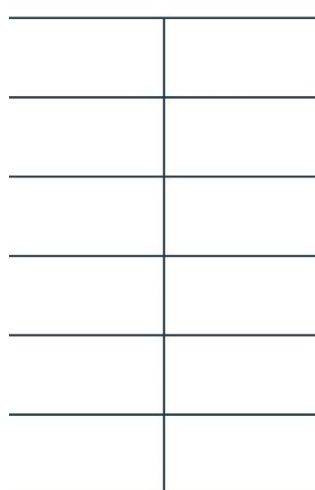

Stone tiles provide all the character and variation to be expected when using a natural product. Close inspection of the veining in stone tiles often reveals subtle fossilised features. A highly detailed veining, like those that contain quartzite crystals or natural marbling, adds interest to small spaces such as a bathroom, shower or fireplace surround. A softer veining, like the misty or billowing veining through a travertine marble or the gentle wave running through a sandstone, offers a more subtle finish; perfect for luxurious walls and flooring.

Laying the stone tiles in a stack bond creates formal, contemporary lines. Whereas lay patterns with more mixed interlocking, such as a brick bond or a random coursed bond, breaks up the lines, creating a more relaxed feel.
